

The effect of the law on the people is to make them more aware of their rights and to make them more responsible for their actions.